Just Amazing

15 Oct 2018

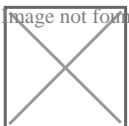

The guide was so good and ended up taking us for a tour of the Village garden. No weeds and very well cared for. We then came back before lunch and had a massage head, neck, shoulders neck and legs, felt really good. Then prepared our five dishes which was a lot of fun. Highly recommend this tour, the whole family involved and all made us feel very comfortable.

Very Enjoyable Experience

We opted to complete farming tour that was comprised of a tour of the vegetable garden, the chance to try hand at growing a crop along with a beautiful lunch to watch. We thoroughly enjoyed the encounter, though the trip of the veggie garden went for a bit way too long in the opinion of mine. The hands on experience of making a plot after which growing and watering it by using traditional techniques and also tools was a great deal of fun and absolutely gave us a terrific insight into how difficult keeping a garden of the size should be. The food that followed was fantastic and ample. I'd highly recommend this particular tour. The staff are beautiful and it is an excellent example and initiative of just how sustainable practices may gain an entire community.

Good experience

Amazing to discover the functioning vegetable farm, freshness of all the regional herbs used in Vietnamese food is incredible, a true wake up for the senses of yours! We simply took ourselves there by bicycle 3kms out of town no tour needed! Let a hometown show us close to, did the project, photos that are great!

Amazing cooking and farming experience

We stumbled across this village by pure chance while out for a cycle and decided to book a cooking class. We were lucky to have a private class with the adorable Hannah. It was one of the funnest days we had in Hoi An and the food was nothing short of superb. The prices are reasonable, the service is great and the even sent us the recipes after we left. You simply have to visit this place!
