Beautiful countryside - great treks

26 Aug 2019

This was a great place to get out of the heat of the city. The views are spectacular. We then trekked down with our guide and saw some absolutely incredible waterfalls and pools - the water was cool, clear and amazing to swim in. After a delicious packed lunch (also included in our price) we continues to where the minibus met us at the bottom. Really brilliant day trip. Highly recommended if you like walking. There were a few scramble areas, but there are guide ropes. All is good :P

too big to see in limited period

13 Apr 2019

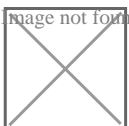

i planned to see it while visiting Hue from da nang. infact it is a very big park with many things to be seen in a imted period. u need to walk a lot and spend some time to see at least something. i suggest to spend at least a full day if u wishes to see it. the entry fee can be lowered.

Great to walks

I listen to the outing is most effective amid the mid season days, however, regardless I'd a brilliant period in cool, damp December. There weren't really many individuals in the leisure facility, and it was ideal with water that is clear and a quiet environment. Be cautious with regards to taking the stairways on the extremely base - they're testing and ineffectively stored up.

A lovely energetic diversion along the way between Hoi An and Hue

23 Mar 2019

At last, we found some wildlife in Vietnam. Snakes, spiders, butterflies, lizzards, birds all abound here, if you take the time to look and you find them as you walk the trails to the Summit the "Lakes" as they call them, which are actually a few small plunge pools, but nice enough for cooling off in all the same, and to the impressive Do Quyen waterfall (which you see from the top, so it is an impressive mountain vista rather than a crashing fall). The miliary and French colonial history around here ads to the enjoyment. All in all, a very enjoyable day trip which can be fitted in during transit between Hoi An and Hue, regardless of direction of travel.

Beautiful site

I'd have the opportunity to visit Bach Ma with my friends. The road to Bach Ma was a bit afraid because it's too high, our driver first drove up the pass but was generally safe. There are many restaurants that serve food on the mountain top. Noted that from 3 pm onwards it is very easy to rain.
