

Relaxing in a bamboo rafting ride on Cham stream

Discovering the diversified culture, custom of minority people in Pu Luong

Learning about the agriculture system contemplating the impressive waterwheels

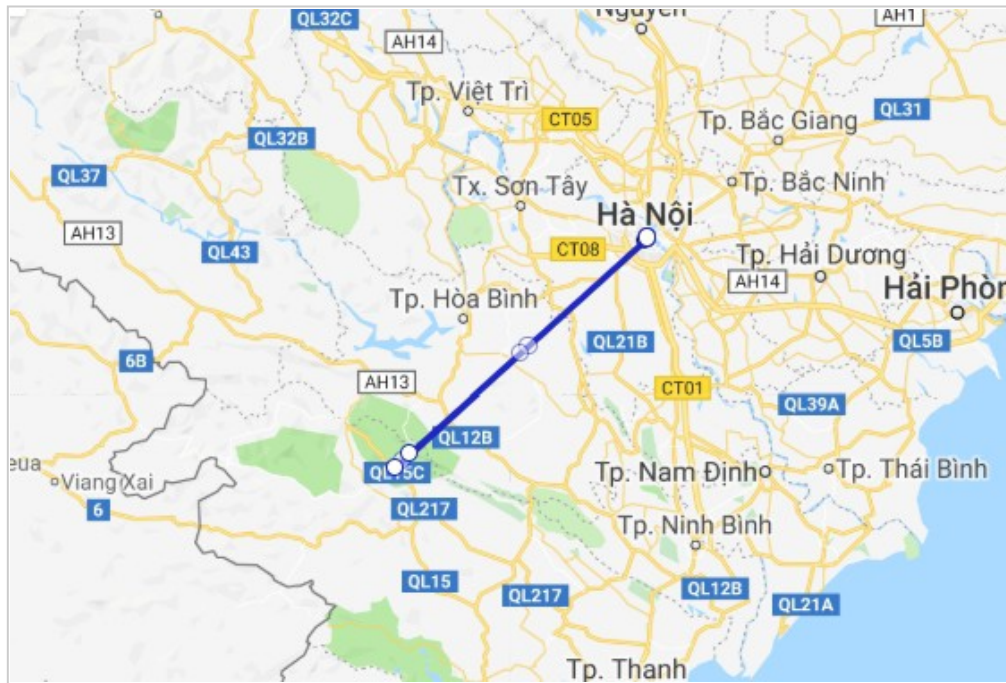

Trip Overview

Another new famous site in Northern Vietnam is Pu Luong Nature Reserve – a village

Address: 68 Tran Hung Dao street, Phu Quoc Island

home of the White Thai, Black Thai, and Muong Ethnic Minority communities. The scenery is well-known for large rice terraces and floating clouds like Sapa but much less touristic. This is a great location for hiking and trekking through the forest and experience the simple life.

Magical experience

03 May 2018

This reserve is mind blowing. I have traveled to many places in Vietnam and this is by far the most beautiful. I was lucky to visit at the right time when the rice fields are bright green. Fireflies cover the fields at night which is magical to watch. Great for trekking and enjoying the peace and quiet. We walked to a village where everyone was very friendly. Just a super magical and extraordinary place!

Address: 68 Tran Hung Dao street, Phu Quoc Island

Loved this area

30 Jan 2018

We visited this area in January and really enjoyed it. The area is very beautiful and unspoilt. We walked and saw local ethnic people going about their daily business very interesting. The locals are very hospitable and invite you to have tea and lunch in their houses. Would really recommend this area it was also warmer than I thought it would be
